

Standards-Based Classrooms

by Sandra Williams, Ed.D.

- Concise, easy-to-use Handbook
- Research proven activities
- K-12 classroom examples

The Guide for Standards-Based Classrooms is a performance-based assessment for teachers to examine their progress in shifting from activities-centered teaching to standards-based practice.

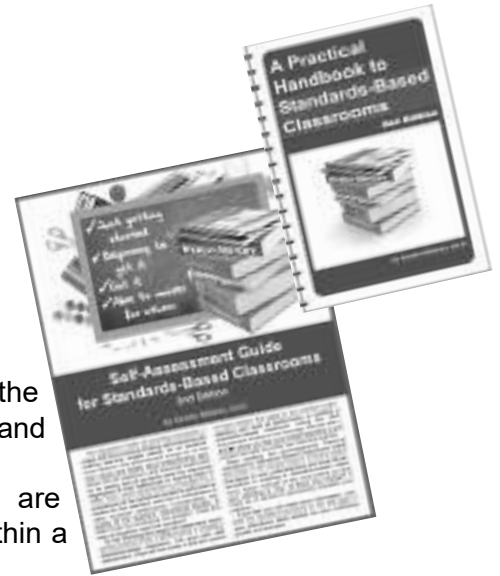

There are five components identified in the Guide. Each one provides four to five essential indicators for a total of 88 items and can be used to establish a baseline performance level as a standards-based practitioner. The results from the assessment reflect a “teaching practice profile.”

After identifying a plan of action from the profile, teachers can use the companion reference, A Practical Handbook for Standards-Based Classrooms for professional development.

The Handbook is designed to complement the five components in the Guide and offers research proven professional development activities and classroom examples K-12.

The Guide for Standards-Based Classrooms and the Handbook are designed to encourage self-reflection and support coaching activities within a learning community.
